Six tiles that give you what you need. York Risk Services Group has released an upgraded safety website with easy to use resources to take your safety culture to the next level. With a focus on WHY safety matters, everything we provide is aimed to help inspire and motivate managers, supervisors, and employees to make a difference by being safe and productive.

Approved users have access to all of the following resources available on the York Risk Control website:

- ▪ On-Line Streaming Safety Videos - The streaming video library service includes hundreds of up to date safety training titles available on-demand. This service allows members to deliver brief safety trainings or tailgate sessions.

- Sample Programs and Training Publications - The website has several sample programs available to members; many of the programs include a development guide. In addition, there are several forms and checklists available. Several safety training publications are available in the Training Tools portion of the website.   The publications are nicely designed and ready for distribution.
- Webinars – Our safety professionals develop pertinent safety webinars. Members can view our live webinars at no additional charge. The recorded webinars and handout materials are posted on the website.

Overview

Members who register for a user login to the Sedgwick Risk Control website at https://riskcontrol.sedgwick.com/ have access to over 300 on-line streaming videos. Videos can be used to help comply with OSHA and other regulatory training requirements, as well as serve as an educational resource for risk managers. Many videos feature quizzes and a certificate of completion can be printed for record-keeping. For assistance, reach us.

Accessing Streaming Videos

Videos are located under the Training Resources tile. Click on the Streaming Videos tile. York maintains our own video collection series with titles at the bottom of the page, and also partners with a vendor to offer a video library service. To access the video library service, use the link "Click to Access Video" which will redirect you to the vendor site.
